Intersectionality 101

Intersectionality is not about “Oppression Olympics”

Intersectionality is not about winning the "oppression games", it's about acknowledging that people experience things differently and avoiding the replication of exclusive and oppressive power structures that we have constructed within Higher Education.

THIS WEEK...
STRESS AWARENESS
To mark Stress Awareness Day, BMWT will be running our second session on ways to manage stress as well as offering healthy coping mechanisms.
With another lockdown imminent, it is essential to ensure we are looking after our wellbeing during these difficult and uncertain times. We will begin the first half of the session with a general discussion on ways to minimise stress, using a range of mindfulness activities.
In the second half, attendees will then be placed into breakout rooms of their preferred gender. Here, there will be a conversation on what stressors they are dealing with and how they are coping.
